One of the important reforms introduced first by the Equitable Life Assurance society several years ago, was the immediate payment of claims upon receipt of proofs of death. Something over 98 per cent of this company's yearly death claims, amounting to over eighteen millions of dollars, are now paid the day the proofs are received at the home office. An illustration of this has just occurred here, in the payment of the policies of the late E. M. Wheeler.

Variety is the spice of life and a variegated vaudeville programme is one that every theatre goer enjoys. To attain this end Manager Lederman of the New York Specialty company, which comes to the Barre opera house June 1, for one night only, selected artists who are leaders in their respective lines and judging by the way the advance seats are going a large attendance is expected. Reserved seats on sale at the Red Cross Pharmacy. Prices 25 and 50c.

Mr. B.—"In other words, the minute she understood about it she was enthusiastic, wasn't she?" Mr. L.—"Yes, and she thinks everyone ought to know about it and is going to talk with Mrs. J. and tell her the advantages of that Investment Insurance Trust Bond, and what a fine Company the National Life is. Write my application for $5,000 at once. Examination any time." Mr. B.—"This evening at 7?" Mr. L.—"Yes." Ballard & Co. Reliable Insurance.

Shipwrecked, a romantic drama, was the offering of the Bennett Monitors Co. at the opera house last night and proved one of the most satisfactory of the week. The company gave an excellent performance. At the close of the performance the pig was turned loose, the catching of which made considerable amusement. The company will close their engagement with a matinee and night performance tonight. The bill for this evening will be the four act comedy drama, entitled "Struggle for Life," a play founded on the strike of the Minneapolis mills, with all the specialties between acts, including Miss Katherine Roth of the Cuban Nightingales.

No Glass Carriage Paint Made will wear as long as Devos'. No others are as heavy bodied, because Devos' weigh 3 to 8 ounces more to the pint. Sold by Reynolds & Son.
